Campbell County Winter Travel Advisory: Level 1 Snow Emergency

Campbell County, KY (January 7, 2025) - Campbell County has downgraded to a Level 1 Snow Emergency due to improving road conditions following recent winter weather. While the most severe hazards have subsided, some areas may still have icy patches or residual snow, requiring drivers to remain alert for safe travel.

This downgrade reflects progress made by road crews and improving weather conditions, but drivers are urged to remain vigilant, prioritize safety, and avoid unnecessary travel. Slippery roads and reduced visibility may still pose risks, so proceed carefully and allow extra time for your commute.

“A Level 1 Snow Emergency reminds us that winter weather can still create hazardous road conditions,” said Campbell County Judge/Executive Steve Pendery. “We thank the community for staying off the roads during the worst of the storm and helping keep our roads safer. I also want to recognize the Campbell County team for working tirelessly to ensure the safety of our residents. Stay informed, drive cautiously, and prioritize safety as conditions continue to improve.”

A Level 1 Snow Emergency means roads may have icy patches or residual snow. Travel is permitted but requires heightened vigilance. Drivers should allow extra time for their commutes and maintain safe distances between vehicles.

“Our team remains actively engaged in monitoring road conditions to protect our community during this Level 1 Snow Emergency,” said William Turner, Director of the Campbell County Office of Emergency Management. “Although conditions have improved, icy patches and slippery areas remain a concern.
